

A group photograph of a folk dance troupe. The group consists of approximately 30 people, including men, women, and children. They are dressed in traditional folk costumes, primarily in shades of brown, white, and blue. Some women wear long, patterned skirts and white blouses with dark aprons. Some men wear dark suits. In the center, a young child is kneeling. The group is standing on a paved area. In the background, there are trees, a white building, and a church tower with a bell tower. The sky is clear and blue.
