

A still life composition set against a deep blue background. In the center is a brass alarm clock with a white face and Roman numerals. The clock's body is engraved with intricate patterns and features a small circular emblem at the top with the text "Hans Ogilvy" and "Holem". To the right of the clock, a wooden horseshoe is positioned with a thick, orange candle resting inside it. Three red mushrooms with white spots are placed near the base of the horseshoe. The scene is decorated with green pine branches and scattered multi-colored confetti on a dark grey surface. The overall aesthetic is festive and traditional.
